Once there was little red bud, called Rose. She lived in a little dark house under the ground. One day she heard a little tap, tap at the door. "Who is it?" Rose said. "It's the Rain. I want to come in," said a soft voice. "No, you can't come in," said the Rose.

After some time, there was another sound near the window, "Who's there?" asked the bud. "It's the Sunshine," said a little cheery voice, "I want to come in." "No," said the tiny Rose, "you can't come in."

The Rain and the Sunshine asked the bud again. Finally she said, "Alright, you may come in." Rose opened the door, the Sunshine and the Rain came in. They held her hands and told her to come outside with them. Little Rose put her head out of the door of her house and saw a beautiful garden. She was very happy. She decided to go out. It was spring time and little rosebud grew into the prettiest flower in the garden.
